

Fifth AMC Symposium: “Types of Evidence in Historical Linguistics”

Selected Talks

Authors	Title
Baerman, Matthew	Analogical origin of ergativity in Pärì
Breitbarth, Anne & Vanderputten, Steven	Material variation as evidence of linguistic variation and change
Bye, Patrik	‘Opening’ in Central Peninsular North Germanic: the evidence of geography and history
Chiantelli-Mosebach, Jordan; Green, Christopher R. & Grollemund, Rebecca	Phonological, Morphological, and Lexical Evidence for Two Jarawan Migrations
Corrigan, K.P.; Maguire, W. & Rahilly, J.	Past Voices, Future Evidence: Re-Exploiting the ‘Tape-Recorded Survey of Hiberno-English Speech’ for the Historical Study of Language Change
Cser, András; Blaskovics, Ákos; Oszkó, Beatrix & Várnai, Zsuzsa	Evidence for vowel length in Old and Middle Hungarian: problems of interpretation
Dietrich, Nadine	From correlation to causation: explaining actuation differences in be going to and go to with contextual strength of association
Goldstein, David	Subgrouping methods differ less in the trees they infer than in how they represent uncertainty
Gopal, Deepthi; Elgh, Erik & Nielsen, Johan Ulrik	When is a tree (not) a tree?
Gotthard, Lisa; Kaps, Marju; Kulick, Seth; Ryant, Neville & Wallenberg, Joel	Scaling Up Treebanks: Automatic Annotation as Evidence for Historical Syntactic Change
Kopaczky-McPherson, Joanna	Formulaic texts as evidence for historical linguistics: Anglicisation in early modern Scottish proverbs
Meisezahl, Marc	A feedback loop of corpora and artificial language learning experiments
Meyerhoff, M., Ballard, E., Watson, C.I. & Ross, B.	Early evidence of New Zealand vowel change
Pinzin, Francesco	Contact explains patterns of language change in Italo-Romance varieties
Pisaniello, Valerio	Studying Nahuatl variation in the colonial period: Types of evidence and methodological issues in approaching Tlaxcala Nahuatl
Rehan, Muhammad	Positional asymmetries in consonantal sound change
Riegger, Chiara; Tschabrun, Pascal; Bögel, Tina & Walkden, George	Prosodic phrasing and scribal practice: Evidence from manuscript white space
Sandstedt, Jade	Mapping language variation and change using spatiotemporal GAMMs
Schreier, Daniel	A Dutchman in the South Atlantic ... and his contribution to English new-dialect formation
Sen, Ranjan; Areshka, Vladislav & Wallis, Christine	Mark Twain and a Methodology for Idiolectal Reconstruction
Struik, Tara & Trips, Carola	(Re)-assessing the productivity of Old and Middle English a- and ge- : what the Tolerance Principle can tell us
Tagliamonte, Sali A.	North American English gotten, revival or retention? Evidence from sociolinguistic typology

Selected Posters

Authors	Title
Berríos Castillo, Aldo	Amphichronic evidence for lexicalised patterns in Mapudungun
Blaskovics, Ákos	The development of the Hungarian postposition nélkül 'without': evidence from historical corpora
Burkette, Allison	The entanglement of words and practices: The role of material culture in language change
Chen, Ziche	A philologically grounded phonological interpretation of 'divisions' in Middle Chinese
Clarté, Grégoire	Model comparison: Wave model vs. Tree model a statistically informed point of view
Domínguez, Verónica & Molineaux, Benjamin	Language History in the Placename record of Patagonia: Overlapping pathways through the native landscape
Goldstein, David & Guzmán Naranjo, Matías	How much does the choice of phylogeny matter for phylogenetic regression?
Gugán, Katalin	Combining lines of evidence in historical reconstruction: The case of the Hungarian accusative
Hartmann, Frederik	Possibilities and Challenges of Using Artificial Neural Networks for Comparative Reconstruction
Heitman, Jack	A New Perspective on the Latin Loans in Welsh
Honkapohja, Alpo	Abbreviations as quantitative evidence for historical English: the case of etc.
Hutchinson, John G.	Lower Mamberamo and Austronesian: The Morphological Evidence
Ingham, Richard & Sylvester, Louise	How – and what – can we learn of register variation in medieval languages?
Inglese, Guglielmo	Variation and change in the argument structure of three-place verbs in Indo-European
Kayenbergh, Juliette	What happens when a progressive emerges? Gaining diachronic insights with synchronic translation evidence
Kieffer, Brandon	Fortition in Luyana, Conditioned by Contact
Kirsten, Johanita & Rosenbach, Anette	A tale of three diaries – Genitive choice in Afrikaans and English in contact
Lalić, Ana	Missionary correspondence as a source for studying language contact in the Ottoman Balkans during the 17th century
Lässig, Johannes	Purpose-Built Drama Corpora for Historical Speech Act Analysis: A Function-to-Form Approach to Threats in English
Lewin, Christopher	Processes of linguistic standardization in an eighteenth-century minoritized language: the case of Manx Gaelic
Marr, Clayton	Internalities and externalities in relative chronology
Monich, Irina	Successive waves of initial foot incorporation in the historical phonology of Western Nilotic
Morrison, Donald Alasdair	The diachronic stability of syllable weight in Scottish Gaelic
Pilsbacher, Anna Katharina	A Typology of Prefix Reduction in South and Central Bavarian Dialects
Pratscher, Pia	When monophthongs are spelled like diphthongs: i -digraphs in Older Scots

Qu, Yexin; Troberg, Michelle & Whitman, John	Syntactic Glossing as Evidence for Syntactic Change
Sandstedt, Jade; Kubota, Maki; Anderssen, Merete; Helset, Stig; Lundquist, Björn; Vangsnes, Øystein A.; Rothman, Jason Sarangi, Piyush	Neural evidence for language change in progress: Individual production variability predicts morphosyntactic processing
Schmechel, Dennis	What historical signals does phonological evidence contain? Recovering Indo-Aryan phylogeny without cognate labels
Sinar, Beck	A constructional approach to prepositions and prepositional phrases in Old English
Stead, Isaac; Pittayaporn, Pittayawat; Tatiyanunt, Uracha & Gray, Russell	Knowing Your Self: Comparative and Corpus Evidence for Old English Reflexives and Intensifiers
Stenroos, Merja	Total evidence in language phylogenies
Tamayo Campins, Marina	On the trail of lost dialects: uncovering patterns of change in late Middle English administrative writing
Timofeeva, Olga; Seiler Rübekeil, Annina; Ayed, Rihab & Vogelsanger, Johanna	Computational Annotation as Evidence for Linguistic Relatedness: a Zero-Shot Cross-Lingual Transfer Test Between Old English and Gothic
Vardakis, Georgios & Poletto, Cecilia	Whi is it so greet difference bitwixe a chirurgian & a phisician? Determining the “technicality” of Middle English medical terminology.
Wallis, Christine	The interplay between language contact and universal principles of grammar: Evidence from Corfioto
Wandl, Florian	Glosses as Evidence for Language Use and Language Change
Zuk, Fabian	The graph structure of relative chronology data
	The Missing Merovingian Pieces: An Empirical Approach to an Interdisciplinary Divide